

STEVENSON ACCEPTS THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENCY WITH FIGHTING PLEDGE; TRUMAN PROMISES TO "TAKE OFF COAT" AND HELP ILLINOIS GOVERNOR WIN

Roaring Jubilation Follows Nomination At Chicago Convention

ADJOURN AT 3 A. M.

Will Probably Make "Short Work" of Selecting Vice-Presidential Nominee

By Bob Considine
(INS Staff Correspondent)

AMPTHEATRE, Chicago, July 26 — (INS) — Adlai E. Stevenson today accepted with a fighting pledge the Democratic Presidential nomination given him by thunderous acclamation and President Truman proudly cried — "I'm going to take off my coat and help him win."

United in roaring jubilation, the convention swept the 52-year-old Governor of Illinois into the victory seat in scenes unparalleled in the frenzied history of American politics after he barely missed winning the nomination on the third ballot.

The emotion-sated delegates adjourned shortly before 3 a. m., CDT, and return to the arena at 11 a. m. to make what probably will be short work of choosing a Vice Presidential nominee to make the fight with Stevenson against the GOP ticket of Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon.

An eloquent tribute paid in Stevenson's acceptance speech to 74 year old Vice President Alben Barkley indicated that it may be in the works for the "Veep" to remain in harness as the grand old warhorse of the Democratic party, if he will accept it.

Stevenson, the man who refused to seek the nomination but promised to fight for the Presidency "with all my heart and soul," was swept to victory in a series of dramatic climaxes topped off by the eloquent withdrawals of his two chief rivals, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia.

Flanked by two of his three sons, escorted by the President and Barkley, the keen-eyed Stevenson, grandson of another Adlai who was Grover Cleveland's Vice President, Stevenson renounced all weakness of demeanor and took the platform as a fighting candidate. "I accept your nomination," he said, "and your platform. I will fight to win with all my heart and soul. With your help, I have no doubt that I will win."

Mr. Truman, in a stirring defense of his administration, and holding out a promise of even greater days to come under Stevenson's leadership, declared — "I'm telling you now that Adlai Stevenson will win in 1952 the same way we did in 1948 and I pledge to you that I'm going to take my coat off and do everything I can to help him win."

The President said Stevenson was nominated because "he would not make deals with anybody."

Mr. Truman declared Stevenson is the first presidential nominee in his experience "who was nominated on a real, honest to goodness draft."

The Chief Executive's speech to a rousing call for party unity and a fighting defense of U. S. participation in the Korean war and the foreign aid efforts of the Democrats.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, whose efforts to capitulate to Stevenson at the start of the third ballot helped speed the bandwagon of the Illinoisan, was mentioned prominently as Stevenson's running mate. So was Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, the south's solid candidate through three ballots. But Russell

SURGERY REMOVES TWO OLD TREES

Doylestown Ash and Elm Tree Landmarks Taken From DuBois Yard

MAPLE TREES PLANTED

DOYLESTOWN, July 26 — Because they were unsafe and had been condemned, an ash and an American elm tree were removed from the side yard of the former John L. DuBois home, East Court and Pine streets.

The elm, about 80 feet tall, was about 40 to 50 years old. For years it has provided shade over the side porches and roof of the building which now contains apartments and offices and is presently owned by former Councilman James D. Rufe.

The ash was about 100 years old, according to the Pinnacle Tree Service, Lambertville, N. J., who made the removal. Because of the size of the trees and the depth of the root system, it was necessary to use winches to remove the trunks.

Several young maple trees, which were planted along the pavement line inside the lawn, will now be able to develop more fully since the old trees were taken away.

The Invaders Drum and Bugle Corps of the Nuss O'Hara Todd Post 1804, V.F.W. of Norristown, will parade and also compete. It was organized on October 28, 1948. STRIKE ENDS MONDAY AT FAIRLESS WORKS

More Than 9,000 Construction Workers Will Resume Work Monday

STRIKE LASTED WEEK

MORRISVILLE, July 26 — Work on the construction of the sprawling Fairless Steel Works in Falls Township, near here, will be resumed Monday. Work at the plant stopped last Monday when a jurisdictional strike gripped the project.

More than 9,000 construction workers idled since the eruption of a jurisdictional dispute a week ago, will return to work Monday, it was announced yesterday by Thomas Dey, agent for the Philadelphia Local 57, AFL Laborers Union.

The local agreed to a resumption of work following a settlement with the ironworkers and carpenters as to a division of assignments.

Last week more than 1,500 members of the Philadelphia local, facing a show-down with the other unions over the division of labor, threw up work-idling picket lines which sealed off all entrances. Construction on the $500,000,000 plant was brought to a virtual standstill.

At the same time representatives of the contending unions met intermittently in attempts to reach an accord, while contractors employing laborers appealed to the AFL Building and Construction Trades Council in Washington charging a violation of a council policy banning strikes and picketing stemming from jurisdictional disputes.

One unconfirmed reason for the dispute indicated that the hod and laborers union was taking retaliatory action against the operating engineers union for the latter's long and costly walkout on a score of other projects in the Trenton area which idled numerous union laborers.

With the mill approximately 60 per cent complete management expects to begin limited production this fall. Not affected by the work stoppage were the United States Steel Co. and its 500 supervisory and clerical employees.

MAKE USE OF AMBULANCES

Samuel McCormick, Fergusonville, was removed to Abington hospital Thursday morning in an ambulance of Bucks County Rescue Squad. Others transported in squad ambulances Thursday were: George Sabol, 340 E. Circle, returned from Children's Hospital, Phila. James Flack, 9 1/2 years, Huntingdon Valley, to office of a local physician, where 12 sutures were required in two severe lacerations of right foot. It was stated Flack's foot was struck by a propeller of a boat in Neshaminy Creek.

DELHAAS TEACHERS

CHARLES M. HUGHES

NICHOLAS F. STOWELL

This is the fourth in a series of profiles of the 14 new members of Delhaas high school faculty.

The mathematics and social studies department at Delhaas high school will add two young men to their staffs this September.

The new mathematics instructor, Charles M. Hughes, 31, 321 E. Second street, Landsdale, is a graduate of Souderton high school, Haverford College and Temple University. He has a master's degree in secondary education. During the war Hughes served as a bombsight and autopilot mechanic with the Army Air Force in England for two years. He has been a gym assistant at a boys' club in New York, is interested in chess, and plays tennis for the Philadelphia Rifle Club.

The addition to the social studies department, Nicholas F. Stowell, 35, who is buying a Levitt home for his wife and child, attended Passaic, N. J., high school, University of Mississippi, Brown University (master of arts degree in history) and Harvard University (master's degree in education). He is spending the current summer at Harvard, working on a doctorate. For the past five years he has taught at East Greenwich, R. I., high school where he also coached tennis. Stowell has traveled through Europe and the Philippines, worked for two years as precision gear grinder, was a camp counselor in New Hampshire, and has been a cub scout leader. During the war he was with the U. S. Signal Corps.

PARADE SPIRIT GRIPS RESIDENTS OF THIS AREA

Carnival Spirit Prevails Here Previous To Big Event This Afternoon

AUTOPARADE 3:30 P. M.

Judges Will Review and Select Prize Winners At Elks Home

Bristol took on a carnival spirit today as activity in preparation for the "Greater Lower Bucks Week" parade was stepped-up as the hour for the monster demonstration drew near.

Flags and decorations were everywhere in evidence and people on the streets were hurrying around to complete their tasks.

The parade forming in the vicinity of the Bristol post office is scheduled to move promptly at four o'clock this afternoon with the exception of the antique automobile division which will get underway at 3:30.

The parade brings to a close a week devoted to showing people of Lower Bucks County what is produced in this area and to better acquaint the residents of the community, as well as those elsewhere, with the historical traditions of the area.

There has been a fine spirit of cooperation on the part of residents of the surrounding communities, during the planning of the week.

The reviewing stand has been erected at Radcliffe and Walnut streets and the judges here will select the prize winners.

There are various interesting exhibits in the window of Bristol merchants and also in the display room of William J. Stroble, Cedar and Market streets, where local manufacturers have an exhibit.

The following is the line-up for the parade with Robert B. Downing and

LAB FOR HOOF-AND-MOUTH

In the past, perhaps, the best strategy against the dread hoof-and-mouth cattle disease was that employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. As recent outbreaks occurred outside this country, major U. S. research for prevention and cure was done in other nations by agreement.

Unhappily, the culprit virus hasn't been arrested. Few persons will question the department's new proposal to build a $10,000,000 "fortress laboratory" on Plum Island, off Long Island. There an all-out effort can be made in a scientifically strategic area of the continental U.S.A.

The United States has recently spent more than $100,000,000 helping Mexico stamp out the disease. Last winter's outbreak in Canada resulted in the present quarantine along the entire 3,000-mile border.

Nor is the international misery limited to North America. At any time the flow of cattle between any two nations may of necessity be stopped. Beef is so important in world trade that such a stoppage, imposed overnight, can be a political and an economic shock.

Some Long Islanders do not like the idea of so "hot" a laboratory in their neighborhood, even though it is on an islet off shore. They can rest easy. Hoof-and-mouth does not effect human beings except through their pocket-books. But for that very reason the lab should be welcomed by all Americans.

THE CLASSLESS SOCIETY

All history, according to Marxian gospel, is a record of the class struggle. One class holds power, and exploits the rest. From time to time one ruling class may be replaced by another, but the exploitation continues. The way to end this rat-race, Marxists hold, is for communists to overthrow the exploiters, set up a dictatorship of the proletariat, and liquidate the exploiters to create a classless society.

Stalin adds his footnote to this prophecy by explaining (1) that this is what has happened in Russia and (2) that the reason it hasn't happened here yet is that criminal Wall Street warmongers have selfishly prevented it.

Now Dr. Walter M. Kutsch-nig, representing the United States in the UN Economic and Social Council, has added another footnote. Russia today, he says, is anything but a classless society. It has upper classes who own and run their own enterprises, receive large incomes, give their children expensive educations and use "pull" on their behalf. Income taxes in the higher brackets are moderate; there are no inheritance taxes.

There is one catch, though, which Dr. Kutsch-nig doesn't mention. Even the privileged classes in Russia are not safe from the attentions of the secret police and the "people's court." Oh, well, you can't have everything.

LAB FOR HOOF-AND-MOUTH

In the past, perhaps, the best strategy against the dread hoof-and-mouth cattle disease was that employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. As recent outbreaks occurred outside this country, major U. S. research for prevention and cure was done in other nations by agreement.

Unhappily, the culprit virus hasn't been arrested. Few persons will question the department's new proposal to build a $10,000,000 "fortress laboratory" on Plum Island, off Long Island. There an all-out effort can be made in a scientifically strategic area of the continental USA.

The United States has recently spent more than $100,000,000 helping Mexico stamp out the disease. Last winter's outbreak in Canada resulted in the present quarantine along the entire 3,000-mile border.

Nor is the international misery limited to North America. At any time the flow of cattle between any two nations may of necessity be stopped. Beef is so important to world trade that such a stoppage, imposed overnight, can be a political and an economic shock.

Some Long Islanders do not like the idea of so "hot" a laboratory in their neighborhood, even though it is on an islet off shore. They can rest easy. Hoof-and-mouth does not effect human beings except through their pocket-books. But for that very reason the lab should be welcomed by all Americans.

THE CLASSLESS SOCIETY

All history, according to Marxian gospel, is a record of the class struggle. One class holds power, and exploits the rest. From time to time one ruling class may be replaced by another, but the exploitation continues. The way to end this rat-race, Marxists hold, is for communists to overthrow the exploiters, set up a dictatorship of the proletariat, and liquidate the exploiters to create a classless society.

Stalin adds his footnote to this prophecy by explaining (1) that this is what has happened in Russia and (2) that the reason it hasn't happened here yet is that criminal Wall Street warmongers have selfishly prevented it.

Now Dr. Walter M. Kutschig, representing the United States in the UN Economic and Social Council, has added another footnote. Russia today, he says, is anything but a classless society. It has upper classes who own and run their own enterprises, receive large incomes, give their children expensive educations and use "pull" on their behalf. Income taxes in the higher brackets are moderate; there are no inheritance taxes.

There is one catch, though, which Dr. Kutschig doesn't mention. Even the privileged classes in Russia are not safe from the attentions of the secret police and the "people's court." Oh, well, you can't have everything.

beauty and Your Shoulders

Don't neglect your shoulders. They need cosmetic care. After your bath treat them to bath oil or fragrant cologne.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WITH the bare-top formal holding its own, shoulders are out in the open for all to see. Women who wear these sartorial pretties are taking surveys of their body lines and they might give a few extra, critical glances to their shoulders. The pose shoulders assume determines the pose of the figure.

There should be an appearance of ease. If the shoulders are carried in a rigid manner, a woman is likely to look bossy, suggest the touch-me-not expression. If they fall forward, the frame appears awkward, the chest is flat. Women of spirit carry themselves in a regal manner, head balanced, spinal column extended, abdominal muscles snug and tight.

Cosmetic Care

Neck and shoulders require a certain amount of cosmetic care. A smooth, white skin surface is of importance. After the daily bath—which should be a rousing scrubbing with a soaped brush—it is a good plan to apply a bath oil or fragrant cologne to neck, fine work and sacrifice of the members of the authority, headed by Alfred O. Redland, but we feel that we are entitled to know the details and ask questions.

"We are especially concerned that some of the plans being discussed may possibly jump our tax payments many dollars each year."

"The taxpayers association is not opposed to increasing the water supply, nor is it opposed to spending money for improvements, but it is interested in seeing that Morrisville people are taken care of first and that our own borough residents are not saddled with financial burdens to provide water for new projects outside the borough limits."

The public has been invited to attend the meeting.

Schedule Opening of the Play "An Inspector Calls"

NEW HOPE, July 26 — One of the great plays of this generation, "An Inspector Calls", by one of England's foremost playwrights, J. B. Priestley, will be the attraction at Bucks County Playhouse the week, July 28.

John Carradine, famous for his performances on stage, screen and television, will be starred in the title role, and Ronald Telfer and Sara Seegar will be featured in the two next important roles, the former as a pompous Britisher, and the latter as his perplexed wife. Others in the cast are Gloria Hove, Tom Avera and David Picken. Robert Caldwell is staging the play and Jean Laurain has designed the setting.

This will be Mr. Carradine's second visit to Theron Bamberger's summer theatre here. He gave a magnificent performance here as the tyrannical father in "The Heiress" in 1949. Since then he has starred in "The Madwoman of Chailott" on Broadway, and has performed on all major TV programs.

Know Your Neighbor ---

A Series of Articles Introducing the New Residents of Levittown to The Community.

By Staff Reporter
LEVITTOWN, July 26 — At 16 Shade Tree Lane live George and Willette Mead, who had been until recently Emilie residents. They originally came from Michigan.

The Meads, who moved in on July 7, have a seven-year-old son, Bill, who attended the new Edgely school this past year. This fall Bill will enter second grade.

Mead works in the laboratory of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company. Until he became so busy that he has little spare time, Mead used to be quite a photography fan.

As part of the decorations on the fireplace brick wall, Mrs. Mead has colorful beer steins which came from Germany. She also has in a feature spot on the wall an attractive wooden scales, highly polished, which Mead himself made.

The Meads plan to extend their living room to include the small area that can be partitioned from the rest of the house. This way they will have a really huge living room.

The breezeway here at No. 16 looks cheery. The Meads have marigolds growing in the openings of the cement blocks which support the framework of the breezeway.

A Series of Articles Introducing the New Residents of Levittown to The Community.

By Staff Reporter

LEVITTOWN, July 26 — At 16 Shade Tree Lane live George and Willette Mead, who had been until recently Emille residents. They originally came from Michigan.

The Meads, who moved in on July 7, have a seven-year-old son, Bill, who attended the new Edgely school this past year. This fall Bill will enter second grade.

Mead works in the laboratory of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company. Until he became so busy that he has little spare time, Mead used to be quite a photography fan.

As part of the decorations on the fireplace brick wall, Mrs. Mead has colorful beer steins which came from Germany. She also has in a feature spot on the wall an attractive wooden scales, highly polished, which Mead himself made.

The Meads plan to extend their living room to include the small area that can be partitioned from the rest of the house. This way they will have a really huge living room.

The breezeway here at No. 16 looks cheery. The Meads have marigolds growing in the openings of the cement blocks which support the framework of the breezeway.

Kaiser Metal won its fourth consecutive game last evening as it won over Franklin A. C. 9-3, on Memorial field. The triumph put the Kaisermen in a deadlock for third place, one-half game away from second place.

PLAYGROUND BASEBALL

Among the youths who are making names for themselves in the Big League teams of Bristol playgrounds are: Ransel Nesbitt, who hit four home runs for four times at bat and Robert Trasatti, who pitched shutout ball. Fine defensive ball was shown by Joseph Kurly.

Winning pitcher in all of Harrison No. 2 teams' victories was Samuel Rossi.

On Thursday, fine example of defensive play by Edward Assanowicz and James DiTullo won the games. Jimmy Kirk drove in the winning runs in the sixth inning as Harrison No. 2 continues to lead the Little League. However, DiSalvo on the losing team is a player who calls for close watching as he played a good game.

Wood Street School went political on Monday at Municipal building when one of their players, none other than Irene Kervick was chosen for Youth Week Burgess.

Not to be omitted are the other youngsters who have been busy with leather craft, horse shoe pitching, checker playing, sewing, and other enjoyable games.

Each playground member is busy planning to win 1st prize for an original hat to be entered in the "hat" contest on Wednesday, July 30th.

Competition has compared with the weather this week when it comes to the playing of softball by the league teams of the Bristol Schools playgrounds.

Due to other interesting activities of Youth Week at the Municipal building, no games were played on Monday morning.

said early today that he is not interested. Kefauver was pictured as willing to accept second prize in the balloting which will be attended to later today, but a White House source asserted that he is "not acceptable" to the President.

Last night's evening session began with the baritone roar of young Franklin D. Roosevelt, asking that the chairman of the powerful New York delegation, Paul Fitzpatrick, be permitted to address the delegates.

Averell Harriman, New York's favorite son, was giving up in favor of Stevenson. Fitzpatrick told the howling delegates.

★ The OUTSIDE of Your HOME ★

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THE outside of your home is important all year round, but especially so in summer when warm weather draws you out to enjoy the sun or the shade.

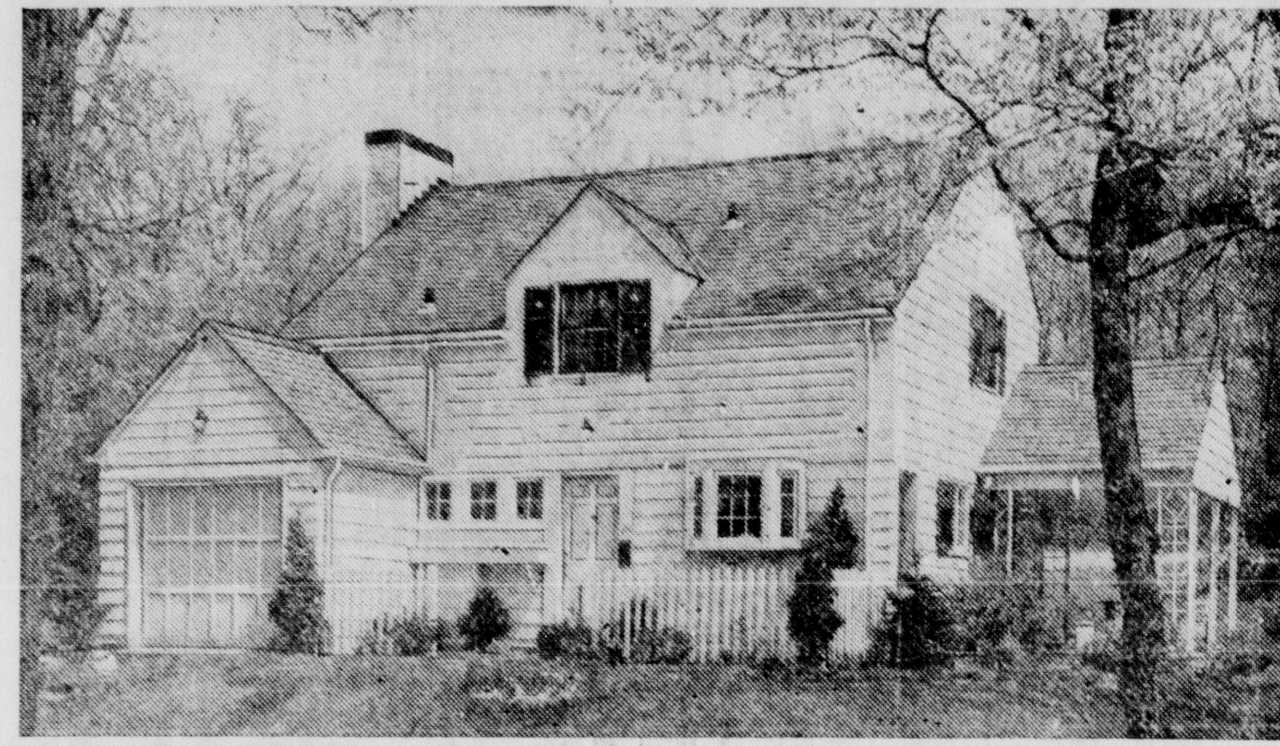

That's when you're apt to discover that there's room for improvement either on the house itself or around the grounds. If such is the case, a copy of Emanuele Stieri's "The Home Owner's Complete Outdoor Handbook" is bound to come in handy. No matter what changes or projects you're contemplating, it's almost certain that they'll be covered in the 577-page volume, which has 300 illustrations, some of which are reproduced here.

The book opens with a 141-page section devoted to construction. Here you'll find information and how-to-do data on building terraces, driveways, walks, walls, fences, fireplaces, garden pools, tool houses and garages. Smaller projects, such as outdoor furniture, children's play equipment, dog houses and garden accessories, are covered, too.

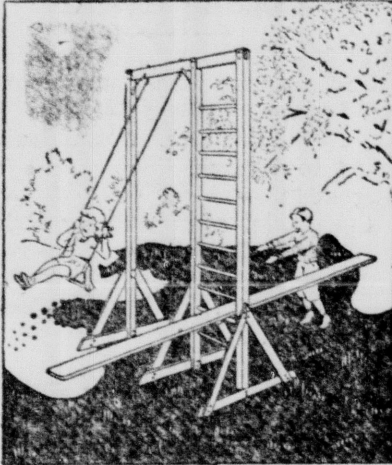

Flower fanciers and gardeners will be interested in part two of the volume, which covers "Growing Things." Various types of gardens are discussed with detailed instructions on raising flowers, fruits and vegetables. Lawns, trees and shrubs come in for comment, too.

For those who'd like to raise pigeons, rabbits or poultry, there's a section on husbandry. This part of the book also has several chapters on beekeeping.

The final portion of the volume, devoted to outdoor games, tells how to build and use such recreational facilities as tennis, badminton and shuffleboard courts. It also covers archery, croquet, volleyball and horseshoe pitching, giving the rules of each game.

THE SUMMER SPOTLIGHT is on the outside of your home. That's why Emanuele Stieri's "The Home Owner's Complete Outdoor Handbook" will prove helpful to those who have outside jobs to tackle.

The volume is probably available at your local book shop. If not, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of this newspaper for the name and address of the publisher of this book.

IF YOU WANT to be "fenced" in, Mr. Stieri points out that the picket fence is probably the most popular style. It's decorative and simple.

Chairman Sam Rayburn ordered the day's third ballot to begin, but he could hardly make himself heard in the roar. And when Alabama, called on first to name its man or men, fell into the mix-up of a poll-of-the-delegation demand, the convention floor seethed with caucuses of other delegations.

Michigan let it be known that it was switching its 40 votes from Kefauver to Stevenson. Sen. Hubert Humphrey pledged his Minnesota votes. Pennsylvania got ready to hurl its lusty 70 votes into the bin.

It took 615-1/2 votes to gain the nomination. At the end of the ballot Stevenson had 613. While Kefauver and Russell gave up, Utah switched four to Kefauver and 1/2 Russell vote to Adlai.

The official final total was:
Stevenson — 617 1/2
Kefauver — 275
Russell — 270
Barkley — 68
Ewing — 3
Dever — 1/2

★ The OUTSIDE of Your HOME ★

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THE outside of your home is important all year round, but especially so in summer when warm weather draws you out to enjoy the sun or the shade.

That's when you're apt to discover that there's room for improvement either on the house itself or around the grounds. If such is the case, a copy of Emanuele Stieri's "The Home Owner's Complete Outdoor Handbook" is bound to come in handy. No matter what changes or projects you're contemplating, it's almost certain that they'll be covered in the 577-page volume, which has 300 illustrations, some of which are reproduced here.

The book opens with a 141-page section devoted to construction. Here you'll find information and how-to-do data on building terraces, driveways, walks, walls, fences, fireplaces, garden pools, tool houses and garages. Smaller projects, such as outdoor furniture, children's play equipment, dog houses and garden accessories, are covered, too.

Flower fanciers and gardeners will be interested in part two of the volume, which covers "Growing Things." Various types of gardens are discussed with detailed instructions on raising flowers, fruits and vegetables. Lawns, trees and shrubs come in for comment, too.

For those who'd like to raise pigeons, rabbits or poultry, there's a section on husbandry. This part of the book also has several chapters on beekeeping.

The final portion of the volume, devoted to outdoor games, tells how to build and use such recreational facilities as tennis, badminton and shuffleboard courts. It also covers archery, croquet, volleyball and horseshoe pitching, giving the rules of each game.

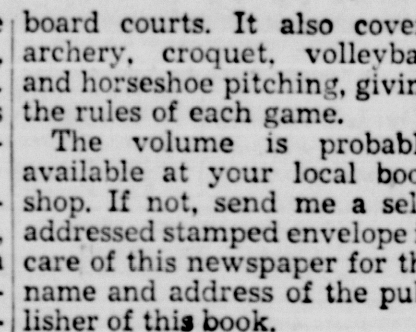

The volume is probably available at your local book shop. If not, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of this newspaper for the name and address of the publisher of this book.

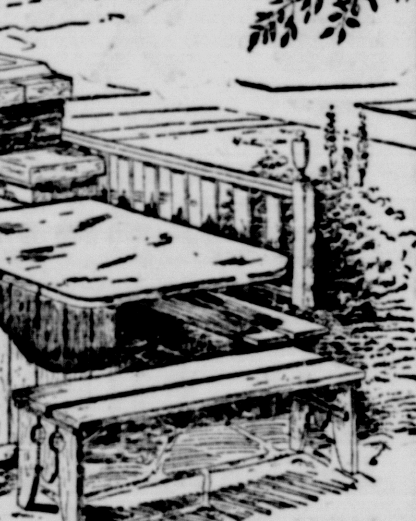

THE SUMMER SPOTLIGHT is on the outside of your home. That's why Emanuele Stieri's "The Home Owner's Complete Outdoor Handbook" will prove helpful to those who have outside jobs to tackle.

IF YOU WANT to be "fenced" in, Mr. Stieri points out that the picket fence is probably the most popular style. It's decorative and simple.

DINING OUT in the backyard is delightful in warm weather. To make cooking easy, here's a fireplace and table that you can construct.

A COUPLE OF BEEKEEPERS unpack supplies. This pastime, as well as raising poultry, rabbits and pigeons, is discussed in the book.

At this time in the deliberations of this convention, I withdraw as a candidate and urge my supporters to cast their votes for my old friend, Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

That was all the wavering delegates needed. A similar surrender on the part of Paul Dever, Governor of Massachusetts, and the convention keynoter was almost superfluous.
